Q No.1 What are the impacts of highways roads and building on Agriculture land of you city & villages?

Anwar: Buildings, highways and roads is very important for any city but you remember that along with these things the greenery is also important for the life and for the every citizens do to greenery also some positive effects on health and also place and important role in the beauty of the any city. The care, buses, motorcycles and industries they carry some toxic substances, these substances are very poisons and badly affect the agriculture, so the unnecessary concentration of buildings should be avoided. To avoid encroachment of one land over the other, also as we see in village the some necessary facilities for life are not available. In village their might be a good agriculture or greenery but with lack of facilities.
