Impact of highways and building on agricultural land of village and city.

Highways, which are passing through the areas, not only damage the natural environment but also cause various ecological problems.

Highways and buildings cover the land which was used for the cultivation of crops.

Decreases the land for agriculture effect the life of humanity.. It damage the land by polluted water and other contaminated materials flowing to the land.

Due to highways and buildings our agricultural production has been reduced to a very low rate so it also effect the wealth of farmers.

As we know that highways and buildings is also the betterment of a city or village but it has also many effects and damages..

For the better environment the land of cultivation is important.
