Topic: Is technology limiting creativity .

It is more common to find people on their phones looking at social apps, playing games or texting rather than communication to others face to face today is generation find it difficult to talk to people because it can get "awkward" and it is easier to be on a device rather than a phone. As technology keeps advancing well it cause people to be less cretavative?

Technology is created to make situations easier, but have we gone to a point where we rely on technology too much that it actually hurts society rather then help.

In a recent article I read called " is technology killing creativity " is state that " the pandemic of technology and smart phones in particular has lead to many suggestions that creativity is being killed by our reliance on these tools " many people rely on these technology daily however technology has been present for a while now in the 1990 s , many people thought and TV and computers game ,will affect creativity, but people are still creating things.

In the brave new world by aldoues huxley, huxley believed that there was going to be a future where technology is used by human for constant desire of distraction every time we find ourselves board, it is more easier to pull out a device then to innovate and find something else to do. In addition, it is easy to find anything online somewhere " we don't give ourselves room to problem solved and innovate on our own room" if a situation become to difficult it is easier to search for answer online than trying to figure it out .

Scientific study tells us that we need time to daydream as daydreams boast our creativity.

If we use any downtime to just scroll through our phone then creativity can be lost. Newsweek reported on the findings of a recent study that indicated that while intelligence scores have standly raisen creativity score have been deeding science 1990 this decline of creativity is thought to be in part to declined of creativity is thought to be a part to declined in play.

There has been decodes of theory and research in child development that tell us how the brain works for a child and how much of an impact their primary years are .

Topic : Smoking in public places has to be banned.

Many surveys, studies and scientific research has proved that smoking is injurious to health smoke is unhealthy and suffocating it pollutes the environment there are two types of smoker active and passive the person who smoke active and other who are near to him it inhale the smoke are passive smoker.both are equally effected by the all effects of smoking smoker and non smoker meet at any places like offices buses, hotels etc., so considering the bad effects of smoking individuals health environment as well as individuals rights, it should be banned in public places. A person who wants to smoke can do so by keeping himself in isolation.

the smoking of cigarette is glamorized through advirstments more and more young boys and girls are attracted by this. Even the ' statutory warning. On the cigarette packets does not stop them. The young generation think that those who smoke are smart modern and intellectual.

However, smoking is not a good habit. Those who smoke suffer from several health problems. A chain smoker is the worst suffer cigarette contain four hundred types of chemicals out of which forty three are carcinogenic. The carbon monoxide concentration in the smoke is greater than twenty thousand ppm.this is diulated to four hundred- five hundred during inhalation it displays oxygen from haemoglobin and the result is impairment of the central nervous system cardiac and pulmonary diseases related to lungs these many eventually load to hurt attacks cigarette also contain and other hydrocarbon which could cause asthma, other respiratory infections and lungs cancer the dust particles, in it may be the cause of irritation of the eyes, cancer and emphysema its nicotine content highly addictive and reaches the brain immediately. It constrict the blood vessels, raises the blood pressure and gives the central nervous system a small jolt. It can lead to reproductive disorders in the long run.

According to a recent study conducted by yale university usa smoking is more harmful for teenagers. The people who start smoking at an early age reduce from certain disabilities their speed and accuracy to group information reduce in it become difficult to certain it in their mind according to leslie Jacobsen associate professor at yale school of medicine " Adolescen smoker were found to have impairments in accuracy of working memory performance smoking make adolescents lethargic and slow.

Scientists have also discovered that smoking can cut eleven years of women's average life expectancy. An incase of man,it takes three years off .they even added that women are more susceptible to the commonest form of lung cancer, adenocarcinoma if a pregnant women smokes, it's not only harmful for her own health but also for the expected baby.

TOPIC: Parents are our first and most important teachers. Describe a specific valuable lesson from one of your parents.

Parents play a major role in the life of my child although, the invention of so many toys and the influence of peers have greatly affected children behaviour of modern time, parents with good traits can use these influence to mold the personality and behaviour of a child for the good. I believe that ideal parents should be of good moral character, good listener and patience.

Parents should have good moral character, because they are the role models of children. It has been known that children are the affection of their parents trait. For instance, my parents do not smoke, gamble or drink. They express virtue in all their actions. They taught us how to respect to elders and be sensitive to other people's feelings all the time. They have been my idols all my life. Because they were able to raise children so well and none of them were astray.

Furthermore being a good listener is very important when parents have time to their children the communication is open between parties. To illustrate my brother failed his science subject in school. My parents did not judge or scold him, instead they talked to him and listened to his concerns they found out that he did not understand his lesson well because of his assigned seat. He was sitting next to an air conditioner and his brother heard him.

Having patience has a lot to do with predicting. Although children behaviour gets out of hand some time due to certain issues like mood parents exert extra mile of patience to comfort them with love and care, for example my sister when she was in her elementary years, she refused to attend school. My mother was always late for work because of my sister's actions. She would always try to bribe her with something so she would go into class.

Parenting is a tough job come with big responsibilities therefore it is crucial that parents should have outstanding character, a good listener and patience so that they would have wonderful children.

Love is the most important and most powerful emotion. Consisting of both heart and mind emotion is a state being often accompanied by physical reaction. A deep reaction for a child must exist. Affection is a part of love. Devotion to the child, which is love given without question. No strings attached for the love the child needs to achieve full potential. A fondness for a child is part of the loving a child taking pleasure in being a parent.

TOPIC: The day I changed myself.

Raiskoniker was not used to crowds and as we said before, he avoided society of every sort of thirst for company. He was so weary after a whole of concentrated weariness and gloomy excitement that he longed to rest, if only for a moment in some other world, whatever it might be and in spite of faintness of the surrounding he was glad now to stay in the tavern.

The master of establishment was in another room, but he frequently came down some steps into the main room, his jantly tarred boats with red Tara over tops coming into room view each time before the rest of his persons. He wore a fail coat and a horribly graizy black sustain waistcoat, with no coat and his whole face seemed. Seemeard with oil like an iron lock. At the counter stood up boy about fourteen and their was another boy somewhat younger who handed a whatever was wanted on the counter lay some sliced cucumber, some piece of derived back ,bread some fished cheaped up small all something very bad it was insfectable close, and so heavy with the fumes of survies that five minutes in reach in atmosphere might well make a man drink .

There are chance meeting with strangers the interest us form the first movement, before a word spoken, such was the impression made on raskolnikov by the person kitting a little distance from him, who looked like a retired clerk. Young man often recalled this impression afterwards, and even ascribed it to presentment. He looked repeatedly at the clerk, partly no doubt because the latter was starting presently at him. Obviously anxious to enter into conversation. At the other person in the room, including the tavern cleeper the Clark looked as through her were used to their company and were it it, showing a shade of considering contempt for them as person of stations and culture inferior in his own. With whom it would be useless for him to covarse. He was a man over fifty. Bald and grizzled of medium height and stuitly bolt .his face bulated from containal drinking was of yellow even granish teenage with swollen eyelids out of which keen radish eyes gleemed like eyes as through of intestine felling perhaps there were even thought and intelligence but at the same time there was a gleam of something very strange him, there was a light in his but the same time there was a gleam of something like madness. He was wearing and that one he had bounded missing except them.

“ May I venture honoured sir to engaged you police conversation?

Four much as through your exterior would not commond respect. My experince admonishes me that you are a man of education and not accumaised to drinking. I have always respected education where in conjunction and not assutmetad and drinking I have always respected education when in conjunction with genuine sentiments and I am besides a trailer counsellor in rank marmeoldes such as my name titolare considered I make bold to inquire have you been in the service?

“ No I am studying “ answerd the young man some what surprised at the”

TOPIC Name : if I were presidents.

Some time really it comes in my mind that if I really become a prime minister of Pakistan so I also would be given all the authorities then I would do a lot of things which are in my mind .

First of all I would see the education system what ever corruption is found in our education system.

“ In our university “ see board” he board etc I,Il really look upon them and kick out all the employes who are breathing about the bush and well haire sincere and faithful people. Who are really educated and know the importance of education and have faced many problems throughout theirlives while studying then I must education medium too, all the schools either government or private would be only english medium schools and I would give many facilities to the students too, e.g transport free diplomas and many others.

Second I would see the the police department and must make some new rules and hire some new rules and hire some persons to evaluate them periodically.

Third I would put a glance on the woman’s right and I,Il surely make some organization’s and departments to make some projects or arrange some conferences to make our ladies to be aware of the importance of education health, children brought up and more...

Third I,Il see the youth are the future of tomorrow,so I,Il surely provide them some sort of pass time jobs and give some benefits of greeting education and motive them to get high and high education.

Fourth I see my country’s economy, trade industries and international relations I would make some laws of my own with advice of parliament members.

Last I see the poverty... I really fell sympathy for the poor people who can’t offord the basic necessities of life at least very old men are still working because of family which he has to support and many old maids working in our homes.... it’s not their age to work but they have to.... there is nothing from government to support them.

Topic: Appearance can be deceiving:

Photography and painting have been long debated as distanict medium this is most notably discured in rogar scrutions paper on , photography and representation 1981 which outline the photography as a mechanical medium with a cause relation to its subject cannot function as an aesthetically significant form of representation in term of ontology of photography and its relation to subject ,this has created a number of perception regarding the difference in how it can presents people in comparison to painted portauire. Reling on scartun notion of the ideal photograph meaning a photograph that does not involve any direct manipulation on to the surface after being taken, I am to Mostly dispel the nation that there a valuable distinction to be made between painted and photographic portraiture, with the exception of a few different this will be achieved by showing that not all painted and photographic portraits fit comfortably within the prejudiced domain they are frequently held within and that they are predominantly capable of achieving the same result.

To begin I will discuss arguments that typically position photography as inferior to painting. A most prominent argument is rooted in juxtaposition between photography and its inability to represent in comparison to the intrinsic relation between painting and representation. He notably mentions that when a photograph is observed the viewer will automatically look through the transparent framing to the subject recorded. Whereas in a painting the viewer will mention interest in the subject recorded. Where's in a painting the viewer will mention interest in the subject embodied within the artist's style. This is bolstered by observing the portraits of Francis Bacon for example in distinction be made when not all paintings fit within this constructing them, in some portraits the observer can dismiss the stylistic elements in favour of analysing the individuals depicted this is demonstrated in naturalistic works such as in Holbein the Younger's portrait of Heinrich VIII this is demonstrated in naturalistic works such as an Holbein's portrait of Henry VIII (1536) here the viewer's attention is diverted from the stylistic elements to the opulent trimmed garments and jewellery significance Henry VIII's power, experience of the sitter and weight in portrait of Henry VIII (1536). The style does not contribute to the overall experience of their portraits to fully support my hypothesis juxtaposition is incorrect an example of portrait photography. The harsh tones showing evoke a dark, mysterious sense of mental torment within the subject equating to his application of brush stroke in his self-portrait this comparison.
