Since its emergency in 1973, Pakistan has had to face daunting crises and challenges. The aftershocks of 9/11 have impacted on Pakistan severely necessitating radical revision in some of its key foreign policy goals. The country is under intense international scrutiny as a frontline state in the global fight against terrorism. This is used for Pakistan to undertake far-reaching domestic reforms as only political, economic and social stability under a democratic dispensation will enable it to overcome the internal and external threats that it now confronts. This necessitates more emphasis on international restructuring and crafting of low profile foreign policy; "Editor Cheshire -puss, "Alice began ...would tell me which way I ought to go from here? that depends a good deal on where you want to go," said the cat. "I don't matter much which way you go," said the cat. "So long as I get somewhere," Alice added as an explanation. "Oh, you are sure to do that," said the cat, "if only you walk long enough in the direction lives a hatter. Visit either you like. They are both mad. But I don't want to go among mad people," Alice remarked. "Oh you can't help that," said the cat, "we're all mad here. I'm mad, you are, 't have come here," Lewis Carroll Alice in Wonderland.

The Turning Point.

On 9/11, that fateful day, Pakistan faced the worst dilemma of its life. It did not know which way to go, and which way not to. Its options were limited and bleak. The world had changed overnight altering the fundamentals of global relations. Political, economic and security shocks had been transmitted across the globe at an electric pace, if not faster. Terrorism became the world's foremost and unifocal challenge with issues of peace, security and development.

With its own post-independence political history replete with crises and challenges that perhaps no other country in the world had ever experienced, Pakistan stood there aghast already burdened with a legacy of multiple challenges both domestic and external, when the tragedy of 9/11 presented it with new ominous realities, and also an opportunity to think anew and act anew.

1: Stop al-Qaeda's operation on the Pakistani border. Intercept arms shipment through Pakistan and all logistical support for bin Laden.

2: Blanket over-flight and landing rights for US planes.

3: Access to Pakistan naval bases, airbases, and borders.

4: Immediate intelligence and immigration information.
