Q.1 What is intensive and Extensive reading, explain in detail?

Ans: Intensive Reading

Intensive reading “calls attention to grammatical forms, discourse markers and other surface structure details for the purpose of understanding literal meaning, implications, rhetorical relationships, and the like.” An analogy is drawn to intensive reading as a “zoom lens” strategy.

Or

To read intensively is to completely deconstruct a text, with the goal of absorbing as much meaning from it as possible. This is done by taking a text, and systematically looking up every word, phrase, or collocation that you do not understand.

Characteristics of Intensive Reading

- Reader is intensively involved in looking inside the text.
- Focus on linguistic or semantic details of a reading.
- Focus on surface structure details such as grammar and discourse markers.
- Identify key vocabulary.
- Read carefully.
- Reading speed is slower.
- Aim is to build more language knowledge rather than simply practice the skill of reading.

Intensive Reading Activities

- Identify main ideas and details.
- Making inferences.
- Looking at the order of information and how it affects the message.
- Identifying words that connect one idea with another.
- Identifying words that indicate change from one section to another.

Extensive Reading

Extensive reading is carried out “to achieve a general understanding of a text.” Extensive reading occurs when students read large amount of high interest material, usually out of class, concentrating on meaning, reading for gist and skipping unknown words

The aim of extensive reading is to build reader confidence and enjoyment rather than gaining language knowledge.

Or

To read extensively is to simply read as much as possible, without concerning oneself with the minutia of meaning and the occasional unknown word. This is done by reading for large swaths of time, and looking up words only when you deem it absolutely necessary to your understanding of the text.

Characteristics of Extensive Reading

- The Purpose of reading is usually related to pleasure, information and general understanding.
- Reading is its own reward
- Reading is individual and silent
- Reading speed is usually faster than slower.
- Teachers orient students to the goals of the program.
- The teacher is a role model of a reader for the students.

Intensive Reading Activities

- Interview each other about their reading.
  - Reading may be combined with a writing component. For example, after reading the newspaper, students may be asked to write a newspaper report.
  - Class time reading.
  - Students may set their own goals for their next session.
  - A reflection on what they noticed about their own reading.
  - A book report or summary.

Q.2 What is Skimming and Scanning, explain in detail?

Ans: Skimming

The type of reading technique in which we quickly read the passage or any kind of text in order to get the general idea of that particular text.

Or

Skimming often refers to the way in which one reads at a faster rate to gain the general idea about the text without paying heed to the intentional and detailed meaning of the text.

For Example - When one reads the text only in order to understand the thesis statement, in one or two lines.

- Skimming is achieved by reading that text only which is considered to be relevant.
- Skimming requires a lower understanding of word recognition than compared to scanning.

How to Do Skimming

- Read the first sentence of paragraph.
- Read the subtitle or introduction.
- Read the summary or last paragraph if there is one.

While Skimming

- Don't read everything in detail but just try to skip the text.
- Read the first and sentence of each paragraph.
- Read the introduction and summary.
- Read a few examples until you understand the concept of the text.

Scanning

The type of reading technique in which we read in order to find and locate what we are searching for. We quickly skip text and rapidly run through the text until we find our specific details.

Or

Scanning refers to the technique when one looks into the document or the text provided for searching some specific text such as some keywords.

Example - Now it may be applied to the real-life example of a dictionary, wherein one looks for a specific word meaning or a directory wherein one searches for the phone number of someone.

- Scanning requires one to have a look at the whole document quickly at least once.
- Scanning requires a higher understanding of word recognition compared to skimming.

In scanning we search for key words

- Particular name
- Number
- Telephone number
- Program
- Date

Scanning gets only what you need

Three steps for scanning includes

- Search for key words
  - Move quickly over the page
  - Less reading and more searching

Q.3 What is Letter and Memo, explain in detail with differences?

Ans:Memo

A memorandum or shortly known as a memo is a precise official note, used to inform, direct or advise the members within the same organization. However, the business deals with a number of external parties such as customers, clients, suppliers, government agencies, manufacturers, societies, etc. for which a different tool of communication is used, called as a business letter.

Memorandum Objectives

An effective Memorandum has the following objectives:

Or

A Letter is a written or printed message addressed to a person or company/organization, usually sent by post or messenger.

It is an addressed document of legal, formal or informal kind for various purposes.

A Letter is complete document containing a particular message for the readers.

Types of Letter

1: Informal Letters. Tone and style is relaxed. It is written to relatives, friends, etc

2: Formal Letters. Tone is formal such as Business Letters

3: Semi-Formal Letters. Tone and style is formal and meant for relatives such as Invitation Letters

Differences between Memo and Letter

The points presented below explain the difference between memo and letter:

The memo can be defined as a short message, written informally to communicate certain information to the members of the organization. Conversely, letters can be understood as a means of a verbal communication containing a brief message addressed to a party external to the business.

A memo uses informal tone and is straight to the point. On the other extreme, letters are very formal and contain lots of information.

The use of memorandum is internal to the organization, in the sense that it is exchanged between two departments, or units or sent by the manager to inform subordinates. As against, the use of letter is external in nature, as it is exchanged between two business houses or between the company and client.

When it comes to length, letters are lengthier in comparison to the memo.

Conclusion

A memo is an essential tool for business communication, which is used to transmit a particular information to many individuals working in the same organization. It has a great role to play in recording the day to day business activities and can be used for future reference.

In contrast, letters are considered as the best mode of written communication, that can be used for giving or seeking information to/from an external party. It helps to persuade the receiver, to do as per the will of the writer.
