KNOWLEDGE AS POWER

Knowledge is a broad concept with no possible ending. Acquiring knowledge involve steps such as communication, logic, perception, and cognitive processes. Knowledge is a human's capacity to identify and accept the truth. However, it can be used for positive well-being as well as negative purposes. Thus gives the power to create and destroy at the same time. Knowledge can be used for personal growth as well as the growth of a community, state, and nation. However, some people use knowledge negatively, leading to the harm of individual or society on the whole.

Only a few people understand the real importance of knowledge. The statement every educated person is knowledgeable; however, every knowledgeable person is educated might not make sense but is the truth. The world around us homes many educated might not make sense but is the truth. The world around us homes many educated people who still have no subject knowledge of what they have studied.

Knowledge helps you ride a bike, play the piano, solve a riddle, etc. It helps us prevent us from making the same mistake twice. Besides, one cannot buy knowledge; one has to earn his/her way to it.

Today's world needs the power of knowledge and education. Without this, life becomes impossible to keep up the fast-paced world. However, knowledge on one particular subject will not aid your success. It is equally important to know how to make effective use of knowledge to succeed. Besides, one should know the other aspects of a subject.

Knowledge is an essential tool to obtain positive changes in our country or society. It gives individuals the future's glance and our in development. All countries are technologically advanced and use advanced machinery and tools through the result of knowledge. Deadly weapons and explosives do not make a country powerful, rather knowledge towards betterment does.

Knowledge impacts and influences our growth and relationship with work and life. It can last for a lifetime and is highly essential for personal growth and development. One can acquire knowledge through any form such as art, dance, history, architecture, or even from one's personal development. Knowledge gives one wisdom to make life-changing decisions in life. However, to learn more, progress, and achieve one's goals, it is important to adopt a positive mindset.

A country's growth and development is not through harmful weapons and armory, but with the amount of knowledgeable people. This is the real power of knowledge.

Shared knowledge helps one communicate and understand others. When we discuss certain topics with our family, friends, or elders, we give as well acquire knowledge. Through communication, we can recognize our growth and learn more to clear our doubts.

A knowledgeable person is the richest, and it cannot be stolen. However, power and money can be taken anytime. Knowledge holds the potential to solve life-related problems. It sharpens one's problem solving and reasoning skills and aids in the smooth functioning of one's brain. Through knowledge, we become smart enough to solve problems efficiently.

Thus, it is rightly said that knowledge helps people to bloom and keeps them away from corruption. It brings prosperity and happiness to one's community or nation. Above all, knowledge opens doors to success.
