

⇒. Positivism Prefers quantitative methods such as social surveys, structured questionnaires and official statistics because these have good reliability and representativeness.

⇒. Interpretivism: An interpretivist approach to social research would be much more qualitative using methods such as unstructured interviews or participants observations.

⇒ Why do I think it is better:

Philosophy by "Karl Thompson" is better because it is more effective and simple to be understood by students through the theory and methods sections.