Mid term Assignment

Q1 Explain what is dumping?

Ans Selling of a product abroad, that is unsafe and is illegal to sell in home country is called dumping. In this case study, selling of tris pajama, in ~~other~~ other countries is dumping.

Dumping does raise ethical and moral issues. The company which does dumping, risk lives of other just for their profit.

They prefer profit over other lives. So it does raise ethical issue.

I think ethical relativist would be in favour of dumping until the country ban the product.

in which the product is being dumped.

Q2 Speculate why dumper dump?

Ans Companies dump their ~~their~~ products that are unsafe and cannot be used or sold. They do this for profit. Disposing hazardous product safely, cost companies a very huge amount, so instead of disposing they dump their products to those ~~to~~ countries, where the products are not banned or the country do ~~not~~ not have the resources to check the product safely.

In my point of view, ~~the~~ producers that dump their products believes that they are not doing anything wrong. And they thinks dumping is morally permissible, because their moral standards revolve around profit. and they are making profit with dumping.

If I were one of the producers of unsafe product, I would dispose my products according to health agencies' guidelines.

Q3 If no law is broken is there ?

Ans Just because no law is broken, dumping is still immoral and unsafe. They cannot morally justify dumping. It is morally wrong, if the product dumped causes any damage to human, animal or society. For dumping to be morally right, there is one condition that is the product must be safe.

Q4 What moral differences, if any
..... ?

It make a great difference,
because if a company
dump thier product, which is safe for health, and the country where the products are dumped into needs the product then it is morally right.

But if a ~~co~~ producer just want to get rid of thier unsafe and banned product, and dumps it
to other countries, then
it is morally wrong.
If the product cause
harm ~~to~~ it is immoral, if the product helps
the country then it is morally right.

Q5 Critically assess the current
..... ?

Ans Present notification systems seems good in theory.
It is moral duty of US to notify other countries of the unsafe products.
~~But~~ But practically ~~it do~~ the notification system does not work properly. Because there are countries which do not have the resources to check the products. The companies can simply change the name of their products and dumped into countries that are not able to test it, if the product is safe or not.

In my view this needs to be changed or improved, because practically it is flawed.

Q6 Putting aside the question of legality. . . . ?

Ans From one ~~side~~ perspective dumping is not wrong because it helps poor countries by providing them products that they can not ~~to~~ get otherwise. From other perspective dumping is morally wrong, because it can cause harm to human animals and environment,

And even the product
can circulate back
to the country that has banned the product, and can cause harm to them.

I am ~~not~~ against dumping, and think
it is morally wrong
because its harms
or way more than its benefits.
