

Cross-Connection :-

A plumbing cross-connection is defined as any physical connection or arrangement between potable water and any source of contamination. Examples of cross connections.

Back Syphpnage control :-

Backflow means the undesirable reversal of flow of a liquid, gas, or suspended solids into the potable water supply, a backflow preventer is designed to keep this from happening. Points at which a potable water system connects with a non-potable water system are called cross connections.
