My Life's most embarrassing moment:

Five years ago I was 15 years old and I was studying at 11th class and told to my father on that time that I want to go to abroad but my father was not agree with this decision of mine because I was not graduated from school yet one day my father told me when you graduated from school then you can go to foreign country now I can't let you to go.

By the way all the time I was thinking about foreign countries I wish I could go to abroad especially France or New Zealand.

So finally one day I graduated from my high school and told my father now I am graduated please make my passport and provide me a visa of France but he was still not agree with this he told me you should start university but I could not agree and I did disobey of my father and he got annoyed of me, though I had some money and eventually I went illegally but my parents were strictly annoyed of me.

While I was illegally traveling I have been suffered from lots of difficulties and faced to many problems within the journey like when I reached to Iran and crossed the border then reached to the second province of Iran which is called Kerman after two days immediately I have arrested by Irani police men and they took me to the jail with some more passengers for two weeks after to week Irani police deported us back to my home land when I back to my country and reached safely to my home again my entire family specially my mother and father they both were still annoyed of me and they did not want to talk to me so their behavior have putted much more pressure upon me and that was the time when my entire body started trembling and that day was the most embarrassing day of my life.

So this is my advice to every single individual that please respect to your parents and never disobey them because your parents know better than you for your future we should obey them and accept every single order or Command of them.
