

Types Of Journalism

- Introduction:
- The meaning of the term journalism is an activity or a profession to collect information and write for newspapers, magazines, websites or to broadcast it through various media such as television, radio or live streaming. Journalism explains the events which impact people's lives in different ways and shared with people in various forms and styles.

Types Of Journalism

- Agricultural journalism :
- Agricultural journalism is a modern type of journalism and has been growing recently for past few decades. The job of an agricultural journalist is to provide news related to the agriculture land, problems and issues of farmers of a country, and modern agricultural methods and techniques.
- In many nations, there are separate news channels and newspapers designated to share information related to agriculture.

Types Of Journalism

- Arts journalism :
- This field is for the art lover people. There are various forms of arts such as dance, music, literature, films, drama, painting, poetry, and many more. The job of an arts journalist is to analyze the trend of the art world and share news related to it with the audience. Arts journalism is sought-after by a great number of audience. Therefore, many news agencies hire separate people to gather news about each field of arts.

Types Of Journalism

- Business journalism :
- Business journalism is about collecting news about business around the globe. A business journalist has to collect news about the launch of new products in the market, unions, and procurement of companies, the performance of companies, economic ups, and downs etc.

Types Of Journalism

- Defense journalism :
- This field provides information about what is happening in or with the military forces (such as Army, Air force, and Navy) of a country. It provides news about the latest equipment, events, technology of various military forces. Reports created by defense journalist make people aware about the national defense and also inculcate patriotism in the citizens.

Types Of Journalism

- Civic Journalism :
- This field produces news by making the use of the democratic right of people i.e. freedom of speech. A civic journalist interviews common people and ask about their problems, issues or opinions. The information collected in this way is used to make news stories and presented to the whole world. A civic journalist has to do a lot of research and be present amongst people to make news stories.

Types Of Journalism

- Crime journalism :
- This field of journalism has always been popular since the beginning of journalism. People are always curious to know about the crimes taking place nationally or internationally. They always want to know what exactly happened and seek accurate details about the criminal cases. people find such news amusing and entertaining. The crime news is mostly based on violence, revenge, greed, corruption, drugs etc.

Types Of Journalism

- Cultural journalism :
- The job of a cultural journalist is to explore the different cultures of the world and report about various customs, festivals, history, languages, and art of those cultures.
- This field of journalism is fun to work for and provide an opportunity to journalist to travel and live in various parts of the world. However, it is not only fun but requires great skills and constant learning to excel in this field. For instance, the journalist has to learn the local language to get information about various cultures.

Types Of Journalism

- Cyber journalism :
- This field of journalism is booming at a fast pace. It came into existence soon after the invention of the internet. Cyber journalism is also called online journalism. A cyber journalist reports about the happening on the cyberspace, which includes, cybercrimes, online events etc. This type of journalism has become a popular career choice of many youngsters because of its interesting work style.

Types Of Journalism

- Sports journalism :
- This type of journalism is related to covering a sports event, sports series or a sports person. This field of journalism is fun to work for, with additional benefits like traveling to different countries, chance to watch live-sports events and opportunities to meet sportsperson. Working in this field require skills like knowledge about the rules of the game, omnipresence, good communication skills etc.

Types Of Journalism

- Political journalism :
- This type of journalism is one of the serious types of journalism. This field can be divided into three categories such as local political news, national political news, and international political news.
- A political journalist has to carefully study political events (like elections), election campaigns, bodies, figures and report news in an unbiased manner. Being is a political journalist is a very difficult and risky job because it can make you bad in the eyes of common people and politician because of your opinionated news.

Types Of Journalism

- Environmental journalism :
- An environmental journalist writes about the environment related issues and writes articles to make people aware of the protection and conservation of it. It also includes environmental events, policies held by environmental organizations for various causes. Environmental crises can be covered by an environment journalist.

Types Of Journalism

- Investigative journalism :
- Investigative journalism is one of the difficult types of journalism because sometimes a case can take months to years to find information about.
- Investigative journalists expose scandals and make headlines. Sometimes a story is published as the facts are being found in daily newspapers. To become an investigative journalist, one should have knowledge, persistence, and patience

THAT'S All
Thank
You